I decide to wireframe YouTube. I use YouTube a lot so I have a pretty good idea of what I would like to see done to the site. First I would bring subscriptions out onto the home page. This is because I have already subscribe to the creators I like I don't like having to go to a separate tab. This is especially important to me because going to subscription is normally the first thing I do. It would work just as the subscriptions tab now and would be solely focused on the videos from the creators that you are subscribed to from that day. The old subscriptions tab will still be there and that's where you can see subscription from days prior. Second change is moving the movies sections up to its own button. This is because I have never used this function at all and I watch movies on other sites. Third is moving the suggested videos to the the rest of the page. The news will be removed or after two rows of suggested videos and will be able to be turned on or off. That is my YouTube homepage redesign.
